"For me, being a Fellow of IIRSM is about three things – respect, recognition and responsibility. I demonstrate and receive respect from my peers. I am recognised for my professionalism and expertise and I have a responsibility to give back. I am proud of my achievement and enjoy my relationship with IIRSM and its members."

There are no limits to what you can achieve.

Nothing is more important than protecting people from harm at work. But health and safety isn't the only area of risk management you will learn about and develop skills for with IIRSM. It's just the beginning.

Our global community of over 8,000 don't just work in health, safety and environment, nor are they simply experts in quality, sustainability, nor governance, security, compliance and audit. Instead, they work in all these fields and more, helping to keep people and organisations safe, healthy and resilient.

We support our members to make a positive impact through:

"I wanted to join a professional institute that allowed me to capture the broad topic of risk and apply those risk techniques into each discipline, to help me with my own professional development. I'm a fan of what the Institute offers"
