Confined Spaces Safety

Course Overview

Confined Spaces Safety teaches learners the dangers and risks associated with Confined Spaces. They will gain an understanding of safe working systems and practices, in line with the Confined Spaces Safety Regulations, and the roles involved in risk assessments and associated procedures.

Who is the course for?

Shift supervisors, maintenance managers and operational workers who operate in confined spaces. It can also be used as refresher training.

Learning outcomes

- Identify what needs to be considered when planning and managing work in confined spaces.
- Understand what precautions measures to use when working in confined spaces.
- Understand the laws relating to working in confined spaces.
- Understand the emergency procedures and practical arrangements of working in confined spaces.

Company benefits

- The Health and Safety at Work Act 1974 and Confined Spaces Safety Regulations 1997 holds employers responsible for the safety of their employees and others. Training your staff on the risks and control measures associated with confined spaces will make sure you are meeting your legal obligations.
- Around 15 people in the UK are killed in confined spaces incidents each year. Not being able to recognise a confined space and its dangers, failed rescue attempts, and inadequate safe systems of work are the main causes of fatalities. This training will make sure your staff are able to identify the dangers of a confined space and implement the necessary precautions, protecting themselves and others from harm.
