Fire Risk Assessment and Fire Safety Management

Course Overview

Fire Risk Assessment and Fire Safety Management provides a basic understanding of fire safety principles and how to implement them into day-to-day activities.

Who is the course for?

The course is designed for people who need to be able to conduct a basic fire risk assessment and understand the basic requirements of fire safety management

Learning outcomes

On completion of this course, candidates should be able to:

- Understand the key legal requirements for fire risk assessment and fire safety management in the workplace
- Identify fire hazards
- Carry out a basic fire risk assessment of a workplace
- Understand the preventative and protective measures that can help eliminate or reduce the risk from fire

Company Benefits

- There are around 20,000 primary fires in commercial and public buildings in Great Britain each year. Approximately 1000 people are injured and 20 people killed as a consequence. 80% of businesses that experience a major fire, fail within 18 months of the incident.
- Effective arrangements for protecting businesses, their people and assets are clearly essential. Fire risk assessment is a process that facilitates the identification of fire hazards and the evaluation of associated risks to allow effective risk management through preventative and protective measures.
